

World Strings Series – Celtic Harp

The Celtic Harp - also known as folk harp - is an ancient instrument that dates back over 4000 years. While the Celtic Harp brings to mind the Celtic green isles that has influenced Celtic culture and music through the centuries, the harp developed in many variations in Africa, Europe, North and South America and Asia.

Traditionally a popular instrument with medieval bards and troubadours, classical music composers through the ages have been inspired to create music that does true justice to the harp's spectacular range of sound and tones.

Enchanting and magical, this beautiful multi-stringed instrument can sound sweet or powerful depending on the strings used. Today, most harpers prefer nylon strings instead of wire.

Without any digital inputs, the Celtic Harp Bundle is a boutique collection of acoustic samples performed by master harper Tomer Bahar.

These Royalty Free recordings of the Celtic Harp are optimised with the closest attention to detail and have been recorded using tube Pre-Amps and Mics on 96kHz.
